Dispelling 'wicked' stepmother myths

By CATHY O'CONNOR
I-G Staff Writer

ALBANY — Concerned about what she calls "the blended family" — in which adults married for the second time may be raising his, her and their children — Irene Sardonis Zimmerman of Albany has established Sunday afternoon "rap" sessions aimed at dispelling the "wicked Stepmother" myth and helping stepparents find workable solutions to problems they may face.

The Stepmothers' Workshop (which she hopes to expand to include stepfathers as well) will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. every Sunday through mid-December and resume in the new year. There is a fee of $2 per session, "which is nominal for those aware of professional counseling fees because this is a labor of love," the Albany resident explained. For information, prospective participants may phone her at home, 525-2495, or at work, 644-6050.

Begun Nov. 7, and temporarily held in her home, the discussions are planned to allow stepmothers to air their feelings, to accept the likelihood that some of these attitudes may at times be negative, and to break out of the "wicked stepmother" stereotype which has been popularized in generations of children's stories.

Basic goal of the group is to help each woman better understand and adjust to her role, while assisting all members of her family in achieving the trusting, caring atmosphere needed for true happiness and growth, Mrs. Zimmerman said. Herself a stepmother, the counselor draws on her own experiences and awareness of the difficulties she had because "I had no one with whom to share my feelings about being a stepmother."

A licensed marriage, family and child counselor who is employed as a youth and family counselor for the City of Berkeley Youth Services, Irene Zimmerman has a master's in social work and is a clinical social worker. She is studying for a Ph.D. in

Loading ahead to retail center

City mulls creation of redevelopment agency

ALBANY — Albany is ripe for the development of a community or regional shopping center, according to a Redwood City consulting firm.

On that basis, City Administrator James Turner is recommending that the city council "further explore" the possibility of creating a redevelopment agency.

Such an agency might be able to finance the purchase of UC-Berkeley land for a future shopping center, with the financing based upon tax increment bonds.

The Albany City Council Monday night received the report from Williams-

Kuebelbeck and Associates, Inc., which indicates that there is a "potential for new retail sales outlets in the city."

"This potential might best be captured by the development of a community or regional shopping center in Albany," it said.

The report said:

"Retail sales in Albany from 1970 to 1975 increased at a much lower rate than in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, and in the state.

—Per-capita retail sales in Albany are relatively low compared to surrounding counties and the state.

—Retail sales here are low for stores selling apparel, general merchandise, drugs, food and home furnishings, which are the main functions of community and regional shopping centers.

—There are no community or regional shopping cen-

District bid for job funds

ALBANY — The Albany Unified School District (AUSD) is making a bid for a portion of the $2 billion public works bill signed into law earlier this year by President Ford, and with it, remodel and repair local school facilities.

At last week's board meeting AUSD business manager John Fike told the board that he hopes to present final figures by Nov. 23.

California's share of the $2 billion public works bill, passed by Congress to create more jobs, is $260 million.

"We won't know how much we'll apply for until preliminary plans have been drawn up," Fike said.

The district is currently studying the cost of creating a library center at Albany High School, remodeling some classrooms there, and repainting walls and replacing windows at the high school gym and pool.

The district hopes to obtain funds to sandblast and repaint MacGregor School and the old wings of Cornell School.

Fike said the district has until Dec. 26 to apply for funds and should know whether it will receive a grant 60 days after the application is received by the Employment Development Administration in Seattle, Wash.

Should the district receive a grant, the work would be done by workers not employed by the school district, Fike said.

Holiday deadline

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, the Times will be published Nov. 22 instead of Nov. 24 and deadlines will be moved up accordingly.

Classified ads must be submitted no later than 4 p.m. Friday, Nov. 19. Display ads and news material must be turned in by noon Friday, Nov. 19.

Young do well in state test; seniors' reading low

ALBANY — Albany's young students earned good marks in the state academic tests, but high school seniors scored surprisingly low in reading.

Second and third graders scored high in reading, their only test area, according to results of the 1975-76 California Assessment Program administered throughout the state.

And sixth graders were above average in all four tested subjects.

Twelfth graders did well in one test and were passable in two others. But their reading score was the lowest Albany test result this year.

School officials are distressed by the seniors' 43 percentile in reading, which means the students fared better than 43 percent and worse than 57 percent of all 12th graders taking the same test, state-wide.

And the officials are mystified by the fact that their 12th graders with a low 43 in reading at the same time scored 90 in spelling, placing them above 90 percent of all others throughout the state.

Those two results should be in the same ballpark since reading and spelling have a high correlation, according to Assistant Supt. Richard Rosenquist.

Another mystery is why the state has such high expectations of Albany's 12th graders, as evidenced by expectancy ranges of 91 to 98 for both reading and language.

There are two rating systems, the percentile comparison with other districts and the expectancy range approach, where the students are evaluated on the basis whether they achieve below, within or above their assigned "comparison band."

Expectancy ranges vary from subject to subject and among school districts.

They are lower when there are more minority students, more welfare families, or more bi-lingual students.

For example, Berkeley schools have a higher percentage of minority and welfare families than Albany, which means the Berkeley expectancy ranges are lower — 53 to 76 in reading, 56 to 79 in language, in comparison with Albany's range of 91 to 98 in both subjects.

"We can understand that our expectancy ranges should be higher than Berkeley, but cannot understand why they are so terrifically high, which makes our district look worse," said Rosenquist.

Rosenquist noted that Albany's high school students have achieved high ratings in other tests which Albany educators consider more reliable.

Full-battery district tests based on national (not state) norms are conducted each year among selected Albany grade levels.

"We have more faith in the full-battery tests," said Rosenquist, indicating there are more questions in each subject area.

He said Supt. Charles McCully and his staff plan to analyze the state test results, looking for explanations and guidelines for future modification of educational programs.

The percentile results of the 10 state tests:

Second grade reading — 83, which means that the second graders did better than 83 percent of all second graders in the state.

Third grade reading — also 83.

Sixth grade reading — 81.

Sixth grade language — 79.

Sixth grade spelling — 65.

Sixth grade math — 58.

Twelfth grade reading — 43.

Twelfth grade language — 64.

Twelfth grade spelling — 90.

Twelfth grade math — 62.

Old 'college try' used for park design, plan

ALBANY — The Albany Parks and Recreation Department is giving it the old "college try," literally, in designing a park at the open field adjacent to the Albany Middle School on Jackson and Buchanan Streets.

The five-acre park, of which 1.8 acres belongs to the Albany Unified School District, is being designed by a University of California landscape architecture class.

According to Parks and Recreation Director Bud Rooney, this is the first time in his memory that Albany has ever had a university class do design or planning work for the city.

The 10-member class is working on the park as a class project, but the roots of the idea go back to the summer of 1975.

"Originally I tried to contact Sacramento State College and UC Davis to see if anyone there wanted to try it," Rooney said, "but apparently none of the classes there were interested then."

However, Mike Armstrong, a 1973 graduate of Albany High School who was working then as a recreational leader, got wind of the plans on it as an individual class project. Armstrong is a senior now majoring in Conservation of Natural Resources.

The project later expanded to include the entire class.

Armstrong and another 1973 Albany High School graduate, Tony Van Coops, also a senior in Conservation of Natural Resources, serve as liaisons between the city and the UC class.

Since accepting the idea of using the class as designers last June, the Albany Parks and Recreation

MIDDLE SCHOOL PARK

Commission has held several meetings to work out details and one public hearing to solicit local residents' comments on what should be priority items for the park.

From the hearing, held Nov. 4, the class has come out with a preliminary design that incorporates what residents said were most needed: a multi-purpose field for soccer, softball and baseball; a jogging area around the field; a picnic area; tennis courts; horse shoe pits; and possibly a swimming pool.

Other amenities, which weren't mentioned at the hearing but will be needed, such as a clubhouse and restrooms also are in the design.

As for parking Rooney said sites along Jackson Street are mostly likely spots.
"The plans drawn by the class will serve as guidelines, but the details, specifications and final design will still have to be done by a professional planner," Armstrong said.

"However, we still need more suggestions to get a better sampling of what residents want," he added.

To that end, another public hearing has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Cornell School cafeteria, 920 Talbot Ave. Armstrong and Van Coops will bring the preliminary plans and materials with which residents' suggestions will be reproduced on a master design sheet at the hearing.

Currently the city has $72,000 budgeted for a park. The money is a carryover from federal revenue sharing funds received by the city two years ago.

Rooney said that since the park is still in its early stages no cost estimate can be made.

In addition to Van Coops and Armstrong, the class has two other former Albany High School students working on the project — Dan Corvello and Wesley Fukumori, both majors in architecture.

Having so many students from Albany involved in the project helps, according to Armstrong and Van Coops, since their knowledge of the city eliminates the added step of familiarization an outsider would have to take.

ALBANY STUDENTS' TEST SCORES

Each of these tests also were evaluated as either below, within or above expectancy ranges set for Albany youngsters in each subject area.

The second and third graders achieved within their assigned expectancy ranges.

The sixth graders were above range in reading, within range in language and spelling and above range in math.

The 12th graders were below range in reading and language, within range in spelling and below range in math.

The high 12th grade "expectancy ranges," which make a good showing difficult, are as follows:

Twelfth grade reading, 91-98, 12th grade language, 91-98, 12th grade spelling, 82-96, 12th grade math, 93-97.

"This is the comparison band I would look for in Piedmont," said Rosenquist.

The basis for the assignment of expectancy ranges to all school districts, varying with each subject, is the state's listing of "background factors" including minorities, welfare families, bi-lingual students and others which lower the expectancy level.

High "socio-economic index" (parents' occupations), high previous scores of past years and other factors tend to raise the expectancy level.

In Albany, the minority pupil ratio is higher than 71 percent of all other districts in the state, but that figure is much higher in other districts such as Berkeley.

It appears that Albany's expectancy levels are raised by credible showings in earlier years, a high socio-economic index and the lack of welfare families in comparison to other districts.

Hometown news

Take off for a week, and what do I find...? Rain, which is pretty fortunate for local weatherman George Bernard. Last word I got, George's rain stick had begun to wither for lack of use.

There's been quite a bit of comings and goings lately in Albany... leaving town for a new home in Penn Valley, near Grass Valley in the Sierras are Fred Hendrickson and wife, Rose, who, neighbors will remember, lived six years on Marin and Ramona Avenues and for the past 20 on Key Route Boulevard.

Moving south, and not just for the winter, is Lottie Moody Sandford after more than 30 years residence in Albany. Her new abode will be at the Westlake Christian Terrace in Oakland. Notes Lottie, "I was homesick for Albany before I even got packed. But if they ever get a senior citizens apartment started in Albany, I'll probably move right back."

New arrival... Paul David King. Born November 9 at Oakland Kaiser Hospital, Paul tipped the scales at eight pounds one ounce at birth, and probably weighs a bit more by now. Proud parents are Greg and Valerie (Westbrooke) King of Neilson Street. Just as proud grandparents are Ed and Eleanor Westbrooke of Washington Avenue and Barbara Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., on the maternal side, and Robert King of El Cerrito and Marge King of Washington state on the paternal side.

Incidentally Greg's a '69 grad of Albany High, and Valerie a '71 grad.

No, it wasn't planned, but the Albany Planning and Zoning Commission was locked inside city hall for a few minutes last week after its bi-weekly meeting. Members Dorothy Larimer, Ann Berry, Anne Rotramel, Col. Sam Dows (retired) and Virginia Moody tried all doors including one that led to the police department but to no avail.

The group finally broke free after calling the police department on one of the phones inside the city hall conference room and getting someone over with a key.

Old timers will probably remember, this isn't the first time for Virginia Moody. In 1965, just after the new city hall building was constructed, then Mayor and Councilman Joel Parker locked her in the city jail during a tour of the place.

Yes, Virginia, lightning does strike twice.

If you hadn't noticed before, the Albany Planning and Zoning Commission is proof positive Albany's a liberated town. Women outnumber men on the commission four to one...

stepmothers, Mrs. Zimmerman cautioned.

"Involvement of the ex-spouse in a power play between natural parent and stepparent adds to problems. I call such interaction 'unfinished business' because it really does not concern the children by the involvement is between the former spouses who have had a bond between them for a number of years."

"When people go into a stepparent situation, they tend to deny that problems will be important to them."

"They say, 'Love will see me through' and believe they will succeed because they love husband or wife and like the spouse's children. The stepparent in a second marriage can have positive feelings toward the child, but these can get displaced by frustrations. People often enter the stepparent role with unrealistic expectations. It is important to realize that one cannot expect fulfillment from her stepchildren," she continued.

"Discipline is a major problem for stepparents," she asserts, adding that the problem becomes more acute if her husband does not support her disciplinary efforts. "Children have master's degrees in manipulation," she warns, suggesting that stepparents faced with children who will not accept discipline from them try to be honest about their own feelings and express them to the child, encouraging the same response.

For example, if the child challenges her right to give discipline, the stepparent must realize that children strike out when they are hurt, angry or frustrated. She might say, "I am not your mother, but I am your stepmother and I have feelings, too. I care about this home being a happy place for all of us and I'd like your help to make it so."

Learning constructive ways to respond to honest feelings of family members and teaching herself to overcome her own feelings of inadequacy, allow herself to make some mistakes without guilt feelings, she challenges the stepparent must cope with if she is to feel successful, Mrs. Zimmerman noted.

"As infants we learned that all our needs were met by mother and we developed the 'good mother' image. Later when she put restrictions on us, our female parent became the 'bad mother' but, eventually the two concepts blended in our minds and we realized that mothers can discipline or do nice things for us and still be accepted."

"The stepparent, however, has no such freedom. She cannot make mistakes and her image already is a negative one. For a child transferred to a stepparent's care, the 'bad mother' image often is retained and the natural mother—particularly if she is deceased or permanently out of the child's life for some reason—takes on all the qualities of the 'good mother,' becoming almost holy in the child's view."

"Sometimes, children feel that to love a stepparent is to be disloyal to the natural mother and often children do not know how to express love for stepparents," Mrs. Zimmerman explained.

Believing that a stepparent is successful if he or she "feels good about oneself and has self-regard," Mrs. Zimmerman suggests that a stepparent can be many things—"another kind of important person in the child's life—sometimes a friend, sometimes a mother, or perhaps even a non-person. Having a sense of humor, respecting each individual's rights and learning to express feeling while being patient until trust and caring can grow with time and sharing are important to being a successful stepparent," the counselor feels. Flexibility also is vital, she said.

"Just as we regularly visit doctors and dentists and get checkups to preserve our health, I hope families will learn to seek 'preventive maintenance' through counseling and professional help when needed."

"One way all families might improve relationships and communication is to sit down together regularly and discuss goals, hopes and even fears relating to the family's life, discussing and sharing their feelings as honestly as possible. It is particularly important for a 'blended family' to do this, each member telling his expectations for the new family unit so that better understanding might be established," Irene Zimmerman concluded.

'Man Who Came to Dinner' set

ALBANY—Penguins, an Egyptian mummy case, and an insane hatchet murderer are all featured in Albany High School's production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" being presented Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the school Little Theater, 603 Key Route Blvd.

Hart and Kaufman's zany comedy revolves about the central character of Sheridan Whiteside, a brilliant and ascerbic wit who entertains millions with a snappy radio show.

Confined to a wheelchair by a broken hip, Whiteside alternately delights and infuriates every human being, with whom he comes into contact. The hilarious goings-on that Whiteside generates are among some of the most beloved moments in American theater.

Appearing in the title role is Walt Sears. He is supported by a cast of 25 including Delta Pick as Maggie Cutler, Whiteside's secretary, Kevin Cross as Bert Jefferson, a dynamic newspaper editor, and Eileen Clute as Lorraine Shelden, a beautiful actress with a somewhat scandalous reputation.

Tickets for "The Man Who Came to Dinner" may be purchased in advance at the High School main office or at the door on the evenings of performance. Admission is $2. Students displaying a student body card receive a small discount.

Home economics' new horizon

By CATHY O'CONNOR

LG Staff Writer

The homemaker in 1980 increasingly is likely to be a bachelor or an unmarried woman living alone, a senior citizen or a working mother who heads her household.

As a result, young people are learning to prepare meals, sew, budget and use home appliances as a part of self-care for adult life, whether or not they plan to marry," said Shirley Ross of El Cerrito, who welcomes the loss of home economics stereotypes.

Predicting in future years we will be eating foods we don't even know exist today," Mrs. Ross considers it vital that people of all ages learn to be adaptable, open to new experiences and methods. Most of all, they would become more "adult" and change and not rely on the strong influence of family background to adjust to life situations.

The president of East Bay Home Economists in Oakland, who celebrates its 28th anniversary this year, and public relations representative for Bay District, California Home Economics Association, the El Cerrito resident has ample opportunity to see trends developing in various fields of her profession, and to share ideas with other home economics majors.

However it is in her role as high school teacher that Mrs. Ross has realized most acutely the need for adaptability and the challenges of preparing youth to live usefully in the world of the future.

"Instead of stressing just the traditional family unit of parents plus children, home economics professionals also are recognizing the single individual or the young man raising children as a family unit today. Those who teach attempt to prepare young people for a choice of varied lifestyles, helping them learn what they will need for self-care as adults."

Teach 12 to 15-year-olds, while most of them expect to plan to marry eventually, they also are becoming aware that they need homemaking skills for daily life prior to marriage," Mrs. Ross explained.

Other changes in home economics curriculum, particularly in junior high and high schools, include teaching about the world food supply, energy use and conservation, and consumerism.

Mrs. Ross says her students are interested in these new topics. She also would like to do a beginning banking class with her 9th grade

"We discuss in class the Home economists to meet

RICHMOND—The East Bay Home Economists in Homemaking will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the home of Mrs. Burnell Johnson with co-hostesses Mrs. Robert Skogen of Richmond and Mrs. Robert R. Lee of Berkeley. Dessert and coffee will be served.

Interested graduates in home economics are welcome. Current members include several from Albany, El Cerrito, Berkeley, Richmond, San Pablo, El Sobrante, Lafayette, Oakland and Orinda.

Meetings are usually held the third Wednesday of each month.

Organized in 1948 and originally sponsored by the Bay section of the California Home Economics Association, the homemakers have monthly programs and community service projects which keep members in touch with professional developments in their field.

For further information call 235-5011 or 841-3213.

changing roles of men and women, the fact that more women are heading households, the needs of older people and how to get along with them.

"I encourage my students to think of the various home economics careers which are open to men as well as to women, and note that men are being accepted in more and more of these careers."

"Among these jobs are working in child care centers, pure research and teaching. Home economics majors also may become consumer advocates, become involved in city planning and in planning for the elderly, and in legislation, particularly because of the growing interest in consumerism," Mrs. Ross continued.

Teaching at Presidio Junior High in San Francisco, her classes include both sexes and young people from many ethnic backgrounds, Mrs. Ross introduces foods, sewing and other homemaking skills to three classes of seventh graders, 25 students in each.

"All students today have greater awareness because of increased communication but family traditions and examples seen at home still are the strongest influences on children and will shape their attitudes as adults," she feels.

"I have boys in the sewing unit and find that any student who does well in other classes will do well in home economics."

"We approach the sewing machine as another household appliance the individual should learn to use."

"The Sewing unit is four and one-half weeks and students make a drawing totebag, put on a patch, sew a button and learn basic embroidery stitches. Teach the latter because the stitches can be used for patching and mending or for decoration. The approach is for future singles living," Mrs. Ross added.

Scouts honored and six inducted

ALBANY—Six new members were inducted and several others presented awards as Boy Scout Troop 12 of Albany recently held its annual fall Court of Honor.

The Court, preceded by a potluck dinner, was attended by a large audience of scouts and their families. Gil Talmadge, representing Boy Scouts of America as Neighborhood Commissioner and American Legion Post 292, sponsor of Troop 12, officiated.

Inducted as new scouts were Dan Johnston, Peter Li, Marc Mackey, Mark Okawachi, Michael Suominen and Kurt Zapata. Paul Maestre was welcomed as a transferee.

Rank advancements were awarded to the following scouts: Scott Sidener and Paul Yi, tenderfoot; Lewis Temple, Michael Wahl, Craig Wong, John Yi and Thomas Yi, first class; Dacil Corvello and Lewis Temple, star; and Bob Held, life.

Eagle Scouts David Finley and Sandeep Mutha received the Bronze Palm and Silver Palm respectively. Fifty-eight merit badges and 17 skill awards were also distributed among the members of the Troop.

Eleven scouts and one adult received Camp Wolfboro patches and 10 scouts and three adults received 50-mile awards.

The troop, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dr. L. E. Temple and Senior Patrol Leader Sanjay Mutha, is on its way to another active year.

Meetings are held regularly Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. at St. Albans Church, Washington and Curtis streets.

How to save gas and money, and get a bonus for doing it.

If you get a pilotless gas range, you can get this spice rack, free.

We're not encouraging you to buy a new gas range. But if you do, we want you to know that many manufacturers are offering pilotless ignition models.

The advantage is easy to see. Forty percent of the gas used by a conventional gas range is just to keep the pilot operating 24 hours a day. But a pilotless range can save that 40%, so you'll save precious gas energy, and money, too.

If you buy a pilotless ignition gas range from a "We Care" dealer between now and November 30, your dealer will hand you a spice rack and set of 12 spices with a retail value of $12.95.

This program is sponsored by the Electric & Gas Industries Association, as part of a campaign to conserve energy, and PG&E is proud to be part of it.

So, if you need a new gas range, don't buy just any model. Get one with a pilotless ignition—it really saves energy.

The four and one-half food units includes making bread, making soups, the latter favored by students.

So, work on nutrition is important because the teacher learned that many of the students are responsible for preparing their own or family meals, since parents are not employed.

One challenge of the foods unit is introducing new foods with the goal of helping individuals expand their horizons in case shortages of inflation changes variety of foods available.

I believe the future will see people eating more of the processed foods and other items which are new but will be used more often as food needs expand. Thus, it is important for people to learn to eat different foods in different ways and to be more adventurous in their meal planning," Mrs. Ross predicted.

In class, we made pumpkin cookies and many students had never seen that vegetable except as pie, but when they tried the cookies, they liked them," she recalled.

It would be helpful if families at home could learn to eat a wider variety of foods, and students can help in this. If students must take care of a new food and if they don't like it, all right. That's about one family in three in this country needs help in understanding food and its future.

Home economists should be prepared to help families meet change, decide if change is desired, and if so, decide the direction of change.

Because of the energy situation, the economy and worldwide interdependence of resources, families are experiencing crises. But, home economists can and should help families minimize their resources.

We certainly can contribute in such areas as nutritional status of families, eating programs, early childhood and parent education, housing for families, conservation of resources. And we can help solve problems of providing food, clothing, shelter and financial support for individuals and thus for the family," concluded Dr. Crabbe, who is dean of home economics at Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

A graduate of University of Oklahoma with an M.S. in home economics, Crabbe has been teaching at Oklahoma State University since 1954. She comes from Tulsa and taught in Oklahoma City after college. She then joined McCull's in Tulsa as its educational representative in the Tulsa area, traveling fulltime for many years.

She lectured, gave demonstrations and staged fashion shows for sewing groups and in schools.

She came to California 12 years ago, residing in San Francisco until moving to El Cerrito about seven years ago, following her marriage to Donal Ross, a native Californian from Turlock who teaches industrial education in San Francisco public schools.

Mrs. Ross belongs to Alpha Delta Kappa, honorary society for teachers and enjoys needlework, and other creative arts.

She has studied the American Indian art of pine-needle basket weaving and, had a weaving class taught by a master weaver from England. She hopes to have time for more weaving in the future but, currently is occupied with her teaching, home duties and working home economics associations, she said.

"I began as president of East Bay Home Economists in Home Economics (HEIH) in September and originally joined the group to expand my acquaintances in my home area, since my job keeps me in San Francisco so much. HEIH has spurred my interest in other fields of home economics and kept me in touch with what is developing."

Passing game smothered Big one gets away from AHS Cougars

By DAVE CHEIT
I-G Sports Writer
Phil Wanlin and the Albany Cougars deserved better.

So they went 7-2 — their best record in 20 years and their first winning season since 1960. So they entered a league with menacing names like Pacific and Alameda in it, and came away with a respectable second-place finish.

They deserved better. An unquestionably successful season ended on a sad, hollow note Friday when Albany — Albany's last hurdle on the way to the glory of a 5-0 league record and an ACAL title — methodically ground up the Cougars in front of most of the City of Albany, 20-0.

It was Piedmont's game all the way. The Scots, whose offense makes Ohio State look like a thrill a minute, ran 31 running plays against an Albany defense that finally met its match.

"They just beat us. They beat us front, and nobody has done that all year," said Wanlin, who inherited a young nucleus from former coach Lyle Setenbach and almost made champions out of them. Albany had given up an average of 71 yards per game on the ground. Piedmont gained 202 Friday — a breakthrough, hardly even speed, just lots of solid blocking on the line and a bettering ram named Jeff Haile. The ACAL's leading rusher, gained 123 yards on 38 carries, giving him a regular-season total of 997.

Even now some liberal Piedmont scorer is looking for three yards he might have overlooked.

Just as the Cougars couldn't contain Haile and Co., they were unable to develop the offense that had given them a shot at the league title in the first place. Andrei Wallace was an ineffectual nine for 26, for just 70 yards. Some of his passes were dropped others were thrown poorly, still others were simply well defended.

"What can I say — he had a great year," said Wanlin. "He didn't have his best game today. He didn't throw as well as he can, and sometimes he didn't see guys who were open."

Piedmont played us for outside pass patterns, and that was what we were trying to do. We finally figured out what they were doing, but it was too late."

The Scots practically gave Albany whatever it could muster on the ground, knowing the only touchdown threat was presented by Wallace and his receivers.

They rarely put on a strong rush, preferring instead to flood the defensive backfield.

Albany tried only 11 rushing plays, and they gained just 23 yards.

The mistakes were quite evenly divided — Albany lost two fumbles and a blocked punt while Piedmont had three passes intercepted. But the timing of the miscues was critical. The Scots got away with theirs, while Albany contributed directly to two Piedmont touchdowns.

The first was a Piedmont punt fumbled by Albany's Warren Thomas at the Cougar 12 in the second quarter. Instead of being Albany's ball it was first down for the Scots, and five plays later Piedmont had a touchdown.

The second was a punt from the Albany 34, blocked by charging lineman Tony Tuck. Piedmont crawled the 34 yards in line plays — which included the Scots' only completed pass — for 10 yards on fourth and eight — for the last touchdown of the day.

But the Scots got their first touchdown fair and square, taking the opening kickoff and going 62 yards in 10 plays. That really was all they needed.

Hal's Freezers go into top spot

ALBANY — Hal's Freezers took advantage of position round pairings in the 915 Majors League at Albany Bowl to go into first place on the team standings list with a 15 to 10 win over Oaks Card Club, who fell back to second place.

Joe Ale's closing 243 game for 615 series made the difference as the Freezers moved to the top by one-half point, 146 to 145½.

Charley Anderson's league leading 625 series, backed by Jim Danzy's 596, helped Team Nine take a 20-5 decision over BCL Superstars, who got a best of 590 from Ralph Butler.

Other good sets in the Majors included Jim Perry's 605 for McCue Printing, 18-7 winners over Team Three, Marc Glyburn's 604 for Curtis Cowboys, and 590 by Mario Salcedo.

Most members of the Majors will be bowling in Albany Bowl's Mini Endurance over the next two weekends. This eight game competition guarantees $2,500 for the first place and $500 for first. Single squads are cared for each of the next two Saturdays and Sundays with two squads on Thanksgiving Day.

The 870 Commercial got its usual share of good numbers, topped by Leon Simon's 597. Roger Carlson hit 574 and Ralph Butler 561 as Roland Enterprises continued in first place by 2½.

Connie Hill's 553 paced the Majorettes, who also featured Jan Lambert's 550 and a pair of 546s by Nancy Wenger and Thelma Chavarin. Albertha Stoudemire's steady 597 on counts of 213-186-198 led the Morrison Reds.

Art Murphy enjoyed a strike filled 257 opener and 622 series for Sons in Retirement, and Bill Gilbraith, bowling in the 660 Classic, belted out a 617 total, following 176 with 220 and 221.

Charley Koop came out on top in a tight scramble for high score honors in the 184 Club loop, his 574 nosing Jim Brannigan's 573 and a 567 by Felix Norris.

Rico Rosso's 231 starter helped him to a 601 series in the Adam and Eve circuit, and Jerry Von Mosch did even better, topping Graphic Arts with 603 and Pacific Stereo with 571.

John Waranietz again led Berkeley Elks with 570 while Fred Buckhalter was topping Albany Eagles with 554.

Awards night set for autumn teams

Coffee and dessert will be served.

Coach satisfied with tennis play

ALBANY — If anything, Rich Lohman, Albany High School's girls tennis team coach, feels "very good about the just concluded season" that saw Albany finish with a 3-7 overall record and a 1-4 Alameda County Athletic League finish.

"A lot of people thought we wouldn't be able to compete in the league," Lohman said, explaining that four of the matches the team lost were close and could have gone either way.

The youth of his team supports Lohman's optimistic appraisal of the season. Six of the seven starters, five was a junior, five were sophomores and one was a freshman. There were no seniors on the team.

Next year Lohman hopes to increase the number of team members from the current 10. Instead of playing just five matches per meet, teams in the ACAL next year will be playing seven matches and also a double round robin schedule.

"That means we need more girls for 10 starting spots plus some alternates," he said.

This year's team members included sophomores, Liz Tellefsen, Eileen Nishifu, Kim Mayfield, Hyun-A Park, June de Jong and Edna Rossi; juniors, Grace de Bos and Theresa Gan; and freshmen, Katy Zapata and Adrienne Breault.

Season records for each of the girls follow:

SINGLES
Liz Tellefsen	5-5
Eileen Nishifu	3-7
Kim Mayfield	2-8
DOUBLES
Katy Zapata	3-7
Adrienne Breault	2-6
Hyun-A Park	2-8
Grace de Bos	2-8
June de Jong	1-4
ALTERNATES
Theresa Gan	0-1
Edna Rossi	0-3

SNACK BAR OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

INTRODUCING A NEW EDUCATIONAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM.

Starting January 1, 1977, your son or daughter can accumulate up to $8100 for college or vocational-technical school during just 36 months in the Army.

Under this Educational Assistance Program, they can save from $50 to $75 each month, with their savings matched 2 for 1! And that adds up.

FOR EVERY DOLLAR THEY SAVE TOWARD COLLEGE, TWO WILL BE ADDED.

By participating in the new program, a young person gets three dollars back for every dollar saved toward college or vocational-technical school — the dollar saved plus the additional two dollars of matching funds.

If the maximum of $75 a month is saved ($2700 over 36 months), $5400 will be added for a total of $8100. If the minimum of $50 a month is saved ($1800 over 36 months), $3600 will be added for a total of $5400.

HOW DO THEY COLLECT?

Assuming your son or daughter has finished the 36-month enlistment in the Army and has deposited, for example, $75 to the educational fund each month, the $8100 accumulated under the pro-around the country now participate in Project AHEAD. It's a great chance for a young person to get a jump on the future.

YOUR LOCAL ARMY REPRESENTATIVE IS THE PERSON TO TALK TO NEXT.

This new Educational Assistance Program, along with all of the other educational benefits the Army offers, will help your son or daughter serve their country better as soldiers now, citizens later. There's no better time to start getting that education than now. Your local Army Representative has full details on all the educational and other opportunities for young people in today's Army. Or, if you'd like us to send the information to you, just mail the coupon. Or call 800-431-1976 toll free. In NY, call 800-243-5614.

THEY CAN ALSO GO TO COLLEGE WHILE IN THE ARMY AND WE PAY UP TO 75% OF THE TUITION.

If your son or daughter enlists in today's Army, all kinds of educational opportunities are open for earning college or vocational-technical credits right on post with the Army paying up to 75% of the tuition. Under Project AHEAD, for example, a young person can enlist in the Army and enroll in college or vocational-technical school at the same time. Over 1400 colleges and universities

'Stupid' rebuttal

Dear Editor: Over the past six or eight months I have tried mightily to refrain from commenting in any way on the ridiculousness of Albany politics. It has been very difficult to keep my mouth shut, but after reading the tremendous stupidity of Mr. Charles Genova's rebuttal to Councilman Griffin, printed in yesterday's Berkeley Gazette, it became impossible.

I certainly hope and pray that the citizens of Albany are much, much more intelligent than Mr. Genova and will turn down any recall action he proposes. I have been informed it will cost the City of Albany $20,000 to hold the recall and to reject a new councilman to the Council. If Mr. Griffin is lax in his duties to the City of Albany, he can be dumped in two more years through a regular election without additional cost to the city. Even Mr. Genova should be able to figure out that this would be much simpler and less expensive solution to his preposterous charges.

Mr. Genova should return to the "funny farm."

Coverage appreciated

Editor: I want to thank the Albany Times staff for the courtesy and school-related press coverage we received during the school year. Recently you ran articles about the "Back to School Program," the successful football season and other information about this year's school programs and activities. It is much appreciated.

HOMECOMING — For a few moments, Albany's streets brightened on Friday as students from Albany High School, city and school officials and members of the police and fire departments joined in the traditional homecoming parade. The sunny afternoon turned dark, however, as the Cougars lost their game, 20-0, and a bid for the ACAL championship.

Defense at end gives Whitehats an 0-0 tie

ALBANY — The Whitehats, Albany's junior varsity football team, held firm on their seven-year streak with less than 14 seconds left in the game to save an 0-0 tie in the season finale against Piedmont last week.

"It was a defensive struggle," coach Curt Phil underlined and added that the Whitehats had several opportunities to score.

Whitehat Carvin Richardson took the opening kickoff and weaved 70 yards to Piedmont's 20, but Albany failed to push the drive. Albany moved to Piedmont's 15 but was again frustrated.

Each team gained about 120 yards total offense, Phil said.

Athlete of the week: harrier

ALBANY — Cross country runner John Stallone has been picked athlete of the week for his efforts in the North Coast Cross Country Meet where he placed in the top third.

The Albany High School sophomore is in his second year of racing. Albany was among 90 schools from throughout Northern California competing in the meet.

George's weather report

ALBANY — A total of 0.95 inches of rain fell last week but the city still trails last year's total by 1.17 inches, according to local weatherman George Bernard.

Total rainfall to date is 3.81 inches compared to 4.98 inches to date last year.

"We're behind," said Bernard, but added, "Winter will soon be here and it looks better this year."

Block-Aids needed

Editor: Buchanan, Portland and Solano Avenues, where are your volunteers?

Just one person in each block is needed to further the Block-Aid program in Albany. Will someone in these blocks please offer his aid?

What is needed is a volunteer who will call on each of the elderly in his block, make himself known as the Block-Aid who may be called in case of an emergency, or when advice is needed when something goes wrong, or when a person is in need of someone to take him shopping or to a doctor.

This Block-Aid will also give out the monthly newsletter of the Albany Senior Center which gives much information about health and other programs of particular interest to elderly in Albany.

This is an effort to make our city a safer place in which to live, and to show the elderly that everyone cares. The Block-Aid program was founded by Mrs. Janis Mulhall, a 32-year old housewife, who saw the need for canvassing for the American Cancer Society. It has now received backing and funding of the Albany Committee on Aging.

Mrs. Mulhall's number is 525-5528.

Hope recall dies

Dear Editor: We have read the petition to recall Councilman (Patrick) Griffin and the answers by Mr. Griffin to the charges as stated in the petition.

We recognize that a citizen can attempt to recall a public official on any grounds he sees fit, but it appears that in this case there are really no grounds of any substance.

In addition, Mr. Griffin sufficiently answered in our opinion the alleged grounds for the recall.

We certainly believe it would be best for the city if this petition died a nice, quiet, natural death.

Don't sign

Dear Editor: The purpose of this letter is to urge the people of Albany to refuse to sign the recall petitions currently being circulated.

As a rule, public officials are not subject to recall simply because philosophical differences of opinion arise during that official's term of office. Recall is rightfully designed and is usually reserved for those occasions when removal is necessitated by official misconduct. It is the right and duty of the people to recall unethical officials.

Recall is a serious matter. It causes disruption and inefficiency in government. It costs thousands of precious tax dollars. And, very importantly, it stigmatizes the personal reputation of the recall target. Clearly, the recall procedure should not be used indiscriminately.

Pat Griffin has not engaged in official misconduct. No charge has been made that he has used his position to advance personal interest at your expense. Ask yourself if you believe his opinions to be held in bad faith. Has he been derelict in his duties to his constituents? Has Pat Griffin acted arbitrarily so that your confidence in responsible city government has been undermined? If your answer to these questions is no, then recall is inappropriate.

Remember, recall elections are expensive and inefficient. The appropriate time to "throw the bum out," if that is your desire, is when that officials seeks re-election. I sincerely feel that this recall campaign is not justified. We should allow this earnest, dedicated young man to complete his term of office. Please, save your pique for the re-election campaign. Save our tax dollars now and do not sign the recall petition.

1976, Councilman Griffin failed to attend the council meeting. Why? Because he was attending a class in Berkeley to become a reserve police officer. Why not Albany? His duty to Albany taxpayers should come first. He was elected by the people of Albany, not the Berkeley Residents.

GRIFFIN: "I do not possess the authority to cancel council meetings."

REBUTTAL: Aug. 16, 1976, Councilman Griffin called off the council meeting for no reason. Councilman Howell and Luoma showed up for the meeting. If Councilman Griffin would have showed up like he was supposed to, there would have been a meeting.

GRIFFIN: "I have never used official stationary nor city employees for any unofficial matters."

REBUTTAL: (Quoted from the Independent Gazette) "It looks like the Albany City Council is taking the time-worn phrase 'Official Family' seriously, with Vice Mayor Pat Griffin's announcement of his engagement printed on official City of Albany stationery. . . . The letter (under the city's official seal) was typed by City Clerk Patricia George during office hours at Griffin's request, she admits, and copies were distributed to several newspapers 'at city expense'."

Rhodesia's problem

Dear Editor: Few Americans realize that in the Rhodesian government led by Ian Smith, 25 percent of its cabinet, 25 percent of its Senate and 25 percent of its lower House are black.

Author Robert N. Cleaves spent two of seven African years in Southern Africa and served as a frontline observer with the First Rhodesian African Rifles, a unit of Rhodesian defense repelling invasion by terrorists from Mozambique. He reports seeing integrated military squads led by black sergeants and observed in Rhodesia little strife because of race. In answer to his question how Taste Barrier Broken.

'Enriched Flavor' breakthrough ends struggle to bring taste to low tar smoking.

For years, dependency on tar for taste has created a taste barrier for low tar smoking. lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Now that barrier has been broken. Broken for good by a remarkable new cigarette called MERIT.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

The result of a radical new discovery so successful at boosting flavor, MERIT actually delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.
Yet MERIT has only 9 mg. of tar. One of the

Tests Verify Taste

MERIT was taste-tested against current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were involved. The majority report: even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT still delivered as much—or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.
